Parent consultation - Relationship and Sex Education

Dear Parents and Carers,

As a school, we have updated our Relationships and Sex Education curriculum (RSE) It is a statutory requirement that all schools in England and Wales are teaching Relationship and Sex Education as a fundamental part of the curriculum.

RSE is embedded in many curriculum areas at Newlands, including through a wide range of texts in English, Personal, Social Health and Economic Education (PSHE) , Science and Religious Education. We aim to promote personal well- being and development through education that gives children and young people the knowledge and practical skills to live healthily and safely.

Every year, we have standalone sessions of RSE in the summer term. This is to cover elements of the curriculum such as "changes to adolescent bodies" and "Sex Education".

We would like you to be involved and have your opinions of the content of our RSE curriculum.

Please follow the link to our draft policy:

Once you have read this please give your views through this short questionnaire:
